6. Individual tasks

Individual tasks develop opportunities for independent work and contribute to more in-depth study of theoretical material, the formation of skills for using knowledge to solve appropriate practical tasks.

Types of individual tasks in the discipline (presentations, control works performed during classes and independent work, coursework, theses, etc.) are determined by the curriculum. Individual tasks are to prepare a presentation for a certain, or selected student with the help of a teacher, subject and other types of work approved by the department. Terms of issue, execution and protection of individual tasks are determined by the curriculum.

Individual tasks are performed by the person who is studying independently with the obtaining of the necessary consultations from the scientific and pedagogical worker. It is allowed to perform works of complex subjects by several persons.

Individual tasks are performed by the person who is studying independently with the obtaining of the necessary consultations from the scientific and pedagogical worker. It is allowed to perform works of complex subjects by several persons.

Individual tasks are performed in the form of scientific articles, speeches (reports) at scientific conferences, presentations, etc.

For a published scientific article a student can get 10 points, a speech (report) at a scientific conference - 7 points, a presentation - 5.

Rules for presentations

Creating presentations is one of the forms of research work.

The presentation is executed using the Microsoft Office PowerPoint program and should consist of at least 15 slides.

The material on the slide can be divided into main and secondary. The main one should be highlighted so that when displaying a slide, he carried the main semantic load: the size of the text or object, color, special effects, the order of appearance on the screen. Additional material is intended to emphasize the main idea of the slide.

Different types of objects are recommended for different font sizes. The title of the slide is better to write the font size 22-28, the subtitle and signature data in the diagrams - 20-24, text, captions and headings of the axes in the charts, information in the tables - 18-22.

Use bold or underlined font to highlight the title, keywords. For registration of secondary information and comments - italics. On all presentation slides, use the same name font.

For a good reception of the presentation from any distance in the hall, it is best to type the text in the font Arial, Bookman Old Style, Calibri, Tahoma, Times New Roman or Verdana.

1. On the first slide, the name of the MES, the name of the university, the department, the surname, the name and patronymic of the student and the topic of the presentation, the number of the training group should be indicated.

2. On the second slide, the presentation content is presented.

3. On other slides - filling the theme.

4. In the text on the slides, words that are not widely used (UN, EU, OSCE, etc.) are not allowed.

5. Slides should be theses. To provide a presentation of PowerPoint visibility and, if necessary, the colorfulness of some slides, you can place different diagrams, graphics, photographs, drawings, collages. Inserted photos or pictures should be of high quality and of a fairly large size, otherwise they will lose sharpness when stretching, which can only spoil the effect of the presentation. During the preparation of the presentation can be used audio.

6. The presentation should be prepared in the provided background (slide template). You should not make slides too colorful and color-coded. This harms the formation of unstable visual images.

7. Slides should either focus on something or visualize the material (the same tables, diagrams, drawings with designations, if any). Do not place multiple blocks of visual or textual information at one slide. This distracts, disperses attention, aggravates concentration.

8. The slide should be simple for perception - a little text on one slide.

Creating a presentation includes a series of steps:

1. Select a theme.

Student independently chooses a topic from the list of topics of individual research tasks. It should be borne in mind that the student has the right to choose the topic of the presentation, which should be agreed with the teacher, in the scope of the curriculum of public associations in Ukraine.

2. Analysis of literature on this topic.

Presentation is the accompaniment of a report or speech, therefore, it is first necessary to develop the concept of a speech, and then to take up the presentation of the presentation.

In general, the presentation should be based on materials from the textbooks. Therefore, the creation of a presentation should precede the careful and in-depth study of literature related to this topic. First of all, it is useful to get acquainted with the scientific work (or the indicated chapters, paragraphs, parties) in general in order to obtain an initial general presentation about it, which can be expanded by reviewing the preface, the content and the conclusion of the work, if any. The main thing at this stage is to identify the core problems of the topic under study and make them the main points of the presentation plan.

3. Statement of the content of the topic with the help of slides.

The presentation should be consistently considered all the questions of the plan. It is important to strive for the theoretical content of work to be linked to the analysis of practical and legal phenomena. The student must be able to demonstrate the practical significance of knowledge of principles, laws and categories.

When creating slides it is not necessary to use outdated sources, which may contain false views, inaccurate formulations and conclusions, outdated digital data. Consequently, the ability to highlight the main theoretical issues and to explain them on a particular material, using contemporary literature, are the basic requirements for preparing a presentation.

7. Teaching methods

Teaching methods are well-organized ways of teacher and student activities aimed at effective solution of educational tasks. They are implemented through a system of techniques and tools of educational activities.

The following teaching methods are used in teaching and mastering the discipline "Constitutional and legal principles of foreign policy" by students:

- verbal - descriptive disclosure of educational material, explanation of the essence of the phenomenon, concept, process, checking the level of independent study of educational material, etc. (story, explanation, lecture, conversation);

- visual - demonstration of diagrams, tables, figures, videos, etc. ;

- practical - the formation of skills, skills in operating legal categories, the application of legal norms and the use of acquired knowledge in conducting seminars.

In addition, the level of independent mental activity uses the following methods:

- problem statement;

- partial search method;

- research method.

8. Control methods

Control methods are methods of diagnostic activity that allow feedback in the learning process to obtain data on the success of learning, the effectiveness of the learning process.

Control measures determine the compliance of the level of knowledge acquired by students with the requirements of the normative documents on higher education.

Self-control is intended for the self-evaluation by the higher education students of the quality of the learning material of the discipline (section, themes). For this purpose, in the training manuals for each topic (section), as well as in the methodological workings out for seminars, questions are foreseen for self-control.

The control of the cathedral is carried out with the purpose of assessing the level of preparation of students in the discipline at various stages of its study and is carried out in the form of entrance, current, secondary and semester control.

In the educational process, the following types of control of learning outcomes are used: input, current during the semester, control work, provided by the curriculum, individual tasks, coursework, final semester, deferred control.

Current control is carried out on all types of classroom activities during the semester. Current control can be carried out in the form of oral questioning or written control at practical, seminars, lectures, in the form of a colloquium, student speeches when discussing issues at seminars, in the form of computer testing, etc. Specific forms of ongoing control and criteria for assessing the level of knowledge are determined by the curriculum. Student evaluation results should be communicated to students in a timely manner. The form of current control is the rector's control work. The results of the evaluation of the rector's control works can be counted as the results of the implementation of the control work provided for by the curriculum.

The final semester control in the discipline is a compulsory form for evaluating the student's learning outcomes. It is conducted in terms established by the schedule of the educational process, and in the amount of educational material determined by the program of academic discipline. Semester control is carried out in the form of a score or semester exam for a specific academic discipline. Students are admitted to semester control provided that they complete all types of work stipulated in the curriculum for the semester in this discipline.

Semester exam (credit) - a form of final control of a separate discipline for the semester, aimed at verifying the mastery of theoretical and practical material. Exams are made on exam papers approved by the department. The teacher is obliged to familiarize students with the contents of the exam questions, a sample of the examination ticket at the beginning of the study of the discipline.

The maximum amount of points that a student can score while completing credit from a discipline is 40.

Assessment of final control is displayed on a national scale as the sum of the points scored by a higher education student during the semester when the control measures provided for by the curriculum (practice) and the points scored during the semester credit are completed.

The maximum amount of points that a student can gain in studying a discipline (passing a practice) is 100.
