

Summary of the discipline
"International Legal Counteraction to Corruption"

1st year 1st semester

Level of higher education – Master

Specialty 293 International Law

Number of credits – 5

Total hours – 150

The program of the discipline "International Legal Counteraction to Corruption" is drawn up in accordance with the educational and professional program of the second (master's) level of higher education, subject area 29 International relations, specialty 293 International Law.

The purpose of the discipline: to master certain tools in the field of combating corruption crimes, to study international organizational and legal principles in the field of combating corruption at the universal and regional levels.

Description of the discipline: The formation and development of the institute of combating corruption in international law. The concept and types of corruption crimes. Combating corruption within the United Nations. Combating corruption within the Council of Europe. Combating corruption within the European Union. Combating corruption in the Americas. Combating corruption within the African continent. Combating corruption within the countries of Asia and the Pacific, the League of Arab States. The role of the International Criminal Police Organization in combating corruption. Combating corruption within international intergovernmental organizations.

Form of final control: exam.