

Summary of the discipline
"Topical International and EU Environment Law"

1st year 2nd semester

Level of higher education – Master

Specialty 293 International Law

Number of credits – 5

Total hours – 150

The program of the discipline "Topical International and EU Environment Law" is drawn up in accordance with the educational and professional program of preparation of the bachelor, subject area 29 International relations, specialty 293 International Law.

The purpose the discipline: to form students' understanding of the theoretical foundations and practical aspects of international and European environmental law, to develop skills in analyzing and resolving legal issues in the field of environmental protection, as well as to promote awareness of the importance of sustainable development and environmental safety in the context of globalization.

Description of the discipline: Topical issues of the formation, development and codification of international environmental law. Current issues of international environmental security and environmental protection during armed conflicts. Topical issues of the institutional mechanism of international environmental law. Topical issues of environmental human rights protection. Topical issues of responsibility in international environmental law. Topical issues of environmental law in the activities of the Council of Europe. Topical issues of environmental human rights protection in the European Court of Human Rights and the European Committee of Social Rights. Topical issues of the activities of the Organization for Security and Co-operation in Europe in the environmental sphere. Topical issues of legal regulation of environmental protection in the European Union. Current issues of the activities of EU bodies and institutions in the field of environmental protection.

Form of final control: credit test.